TOHANNAH BAMILTON'S CONFESSION.

Particulars of a Twofold Homicide in Newfoundland.

Still Another Woman "at the Bottom of It"-A Woman is Accessory to Two Murders for the Sake of Marrying the Murderer- How She Appears and What She Does in Prison-A Young and Beautiful Girl Doomed to the Gallows-How Gehan, the Assassin, Received the News that His Mistress Had hade a Full Confession of the Murders-He Charges Her with Treachery-The Coroner's Jury-A Verdict of "Wilful Murder."

Sr. Jonn's N. P., Jan. —, 1872. The murder of the old man Garret sears and his sister, Mrs. Gohan, by the husband of the latter, Full continues to create universal horror among the law-abiding people of Newfoundland. Many weeks had passed since the body of Mrs. Gehan was found on the old Spaniard's Bay Road, and the crime was still shrouded in mystery. Then, as the HERALD has promptly published, the body of the missing man, Sears, was discovered by the Chief of Police in a heap of ordure near the murderer's house, and then suspicion was fixed on Geban and HIS GUILTY PARAMOUR, Johannah Hamitton, who were duly arrested. Gehan strongly asserted his innocence and was upheld in his protestations by his accomplice. On the ground of indisputable circumstantial evidence the murderer and Johannah Hamilton were conveyed from Harbor Grace in charge of the Chief of Police to the Penitentiary at St. John's. There the terrors of prison ille extracted from the girl Hamilton a full confession of the murders committed by the hands of Parrick Gehan, and fully witnessed and connived at by herself. She said that on the morning of the 20th of November, Garrett Sears, Patrick Genan, Mrs. Genan and witness sat together at breakfast in Genan's house. During the meal Gehan octrayed an uncommon surfiness of disposition, and seemed disposed to avail himself of the least opportunity to vent ats passion on somebody. After patiently listening to many untoward remarks passed by Gehan, the old man, Sears, at last undertook to reprimand him. Gehan then left the room, and shortly returned with a pistol, which, without attering a word, he aimed and fired at old Sears, indicting A MOUTAL WOUND in the brain. Old Sears felt backward, exclaiming. "Hoty Saviour, have mercy on me!" While prostrate on the floor, and gasping and meaning in his death throes, the old man received eight or ten violent blows of a mattock, which Genan seized in order to despatch his victim. These blows occastoned the revolting appearance of THE MURDERED MAN'S SKULL, which was recently described by your corre spondent. In the meantime Gehan's wife had fied to her bedroom, where she felt into a swoon. After the completion of his first bloody work, the mur-derer lollowed her into the bedroom, and before derer totiowed her into the bedroom, and before she had recovered from her fit, he removed a feather bed and threw it over her, pressing upon it tigntly in order

TO SMOTHER HER.

In consequence of the woman's sudden filness suffocation was not long delayed. Fearing that she might again breathe, the murierer gave her a heavy blow with the mattock on the back of the skuil. In the dead of night the mangled corpse of old Scars was carried to the manure heap and buried there. The wilness, Johannah Hamilton, assisted in this work. Then Genan proposed to bring the corpse of his wile "away up the spaniard's flay road," and leave it there, so that people might say that some accudent had betalen her. The body of Mrs. Geban was accordingly borne to a lone-some spot on the Spaniard's flay road, and there disposed of successfully, as the murderers hoped.

This part of

exactly coincides with detective Foley's first theory, that the worigan must have been killed in Gehau's house, for several reasons, viz.;—The clothes upon the woman's coppes were of a fashion in which no woman would be found at that distance from her house; finally, that the Spanish Bay road had been muddy for many days, and the boots upon the dead woman's feet were perfectly free from any soil, and the soies had that peculiar gloss acquired by boots which have not been used outside of doors for a considerable time.

The above is a substantial synopsy of Johannah which have not been used outside of doors for a considerable time.

The above is a substantial synopsis of Johannah Hamilton's confession. But the most interesting question which now absorbs the morned curiosity of the people is the nature of the intimacy which existed between the unirderer and miss pract accomplice.

She is a woman of only twent five years, possessing a queenly figure and a countenance of severe beauty, without womanly grace. In her orison the she affects that stold indifference to sympathy which has characterized so many historical aeroines of crime. She has permitted several sisters of Charity to visit and bestow upon her wretched sout their gentic consolations. Through many hours she sits to visit and bestow upon her wretched sout their gentic consolations. Through many hours sie sits all lost infinovable, with her arms resting on the pillow of her rule palet and her hand buried in her rich black hair. She often refuses the loot offered her, though the matron and other female attendants of the Femicatury show her much tenderness; for she has tailen to a condition in which they had never before seen one of their own sex in this country. She rarely speaks more than "Yes" or "No." and her sleep is short and stiful. It would be almost never opiore seen one of their own sex in this country. She rarely speaks more than "Yes" or "No." and her steep is short and atful. It would be almost to think that this unfortunate airl will not share the same fate with him to become whose mistress she steeped her hands in blood that would never have been shed without her acquiescence. That the murderer denan will swing from the gallows tree there is no doubt. If the extreme penalty of British law is ever practicable in Newtoundland.

Gehan is a situate, eiderly man, who has been for many years engaged as a Labrador fisherman. In Brison his disposition is generally morose and querulous. For certain reasons the Culer of Police desisted until yesterday to inform him that Johannan Hamitton had made a full confession of the murder of his wife and old Garret Sears; Before hearing this futal news Gehan had maintained a film confidence whenever pressed by the Chief of Police to give some definite expandation of very intricate circumstances connected with the dead bodies and Gehan's house and himself and the gril Hamiton. But on learning that the woman for whose love as had perpetrated the murder of his wife and brother in-law had given him into TBE HANDS OF THE HANGMAN, he literally trempled with revenge, and stood transfixed like some graphic statue of despair as the chief retierated the treithe, facts of the twofold homicide. After his long Barrowing silence he yelled:—"She is mad! She was always mad, and must have done it all herself. I know what women are when they get into a scrape. They he daminably to save themselves."

Here the pri on r's counsel requested that Gehan should not be further interfered with until after ne had procured a trail. Chief Fosey promised to have the verdict of the Coroner's jury in the case of the murder of Garrett Sears and Mrs. Gehan:—

Cononer's Jury Room, I have death of the late Garrett Sears and Jane Gehan, having viewed their bodies and heard the evidence adduced, do hereby find that Johannah Hamiton was

ICEBOAT CARNIVAL.

The Annual Resents at Poughkeepsie. Poughkeepsie, Jan. 9, 1872.

The annual iceboat carnival is now in full blas on the Hudson River, and the most novel sights are witnessed. Those who have never taken a trip on one of the modern iceboats have no idea of the ex-citement attending such a venture. It is no child's play. It is the rarest, wildest sport that can be imagined. The amateur boatman crawis toto the box and hes upon a buffalo robe at full length, and awaits the start. The springy, light craft wears away before the wind, and then comes speed in-from the word "go." You have stood upon a high mountain before now, and, looking down upon the valley beneath, have seen the shadows of the clouds chasing each other o'er hill and plain with what would seem remarkable rapidity. Iceboats move four times as fast. As you cannot see the Hudson from your cosey sanctum, just imagine seeing fifty miles of clear black ice in length, one mile in width and eight inches thick; scarcely an obstruction anywhere, except now and then an ice hummock. Not a sound is neard besides the rattling and crackling caused by the action of the tide. Look to the northward ! There comes a flect of ice poats bearing down upon you with the wind from the northwest. The Elia, which won the first prize of the Poughkeepsie Club last year, is in the advance. She darts along five times

AS FAST AS THE WIND, for Mr. Roosevett's lettle is chasing her. It is only the humming sounds from their steel runners tell that they are doing good work. At times it seems that they are doing good work. At times it seems as if it is only a question as to who is the best navigator. First one goes to the tront and then the other, Both carry a cloud of canyas, and every foot of cordage is tauk. Ringing cheers go up from both hoats as they come in close proximity with each other, and so the sport goes on. Some distance astern, having statted considerably later, comes another boat, larger than any other boat on the limitson. She glistens and somes in the sunlight as though studied with diamonds. It is haron limis new boat Haze, the iceboat wonder of the world. She is over thirty feet in length from end of bowsprit to rudder-nost and is of sam triangular build and supplied with excellent stret runners. She is constructed of white pine and chestnut, but together in the finest manner possible. Her travellers, cleaks, bowsprit stavs, tiller blocks, &c., are all degantly nickle-plated, and she has the most costly w're rigging, her wbox' will held but two persons for she was built for racing), and it is lined with neavy crimson rep cushions to be on. Her owner things the world of her: and well he might. Her new sais are not yet properly flited to ner; but in a day or two they will not been to piace. She is two feet ionizer than Mr. Rooseveit's Ichie, the latter being also a splendid craft. There is much speculation as to the relative merits of the two, and, as a consequence.

This Forthoosing Annual Reseatta. Is looked forward to with great interest. At the present time the owners of both boats seem to active most contanguation on Satarday he said he was anxious for a race of any king with anyondy. Said he, "if they don't put on an official race soon I will challenge any boat in the fleet for a hundred dollar prize and I will find the prize." If he had his own way about the matter he would have a race every day while there is good boaung, and for that reason alone as should be commodore. Commodore Booth's new boat Restiess was put on the cars of the Hudson River Railroad. I wish some of you as if it is only a question as to who is the best navi-

A CALIFORNIA MURDERER SENTENCED.

[From the San Francisco Alta, Dec. 24.]
The Fifteenth District Court during a greater portion of last week was occupied in the trial of William Don'van for the wi an and deuberate murder, by shooting, of George Mittelei, on the 8th of November, 1870, in Contra Costa county, which resulted in the second conviction of the prisoner of murder in the first degree, the penalty for which is death.

At one o'clock yesterday afternoon the Court met pursuant to adjournment, his Honor Judge Dwineite taking his seat on the beach. The prisoner was seated at the side of his counsel engaged in conversation.

In conversation.

THE COURT TO THE PRISONER.

Mr. Denovan stand up. You were indicted by the Grand July of the county of Contra Costa by an indictment in which you were energed with the killing of one George Miceael. To that indictment you pleaded not guilty. You were once tried in the county of Contra Costa and a verdict of ginity was requered against you. The supreme Court in its wisdom granted you a new trial. On your own motion the case was transierred to this city and county for trial. You were tried here and very that designed. Ever things was done but counted county of Contra Costa and a verdict of guitty was remiered against you. The supreme Court in its wisdom granted you a new trail. On your own motion the case was transferred to this city and county for trail. You were tried here and very and y deemeded. Everything was done that counsel could do for you. They defended you with a tenacity and faithfulness unparalleled. But the hirry, under the circumstances, feeing undoubtedly that the evideace was so strong against you, that they could not do otherwise than they did, and is to find you guilty of murier in the first degree and rendered a verific to that effect.

Have you anything to say why the judgment of the Court should not be pronounced against you?

The PRISONEL ADDRESSES THE COURT.

Donovan said he desired to make some remarks, the privilege acting granted to firm. All eyes were intent on him, and its floor giving him the utmost attention.

The prisoner first handed the Court two diagrams drawn by him of the sceece of the murder, and the situation of all parties at the time the fatal shot was fired. These he fully explained in the course of his remarks. His remarks at times were inconcrent, and he proceeded to review the testimony of some of the winesses, which he had apparently studied, and compared, as he believed, their contradictory statements given on cace make the committed reswer this nice away; that an houses man was being condemned on the testimony of those who had conspired against him; that some of the winesses had not the color of honest men in hear face. He was particularly severe on District Attorney Mills, of Contra Costa, whom he accused of being a spritual murderer, the was 6,000 miles from his native home in a strange land, without triends. He said he was not affail of dealin, the only living God was his niend. All he asked was that the commandments to obeyet; no man could harm a bair of his head of his he wanted ho and from attorneys, but did ask the protection of the court for he appealed for protection, and here for the first trial he h with your God.

The sentence of the Court is that on Friday, the leth day of February next, you be by the Sherin of the chy and country of san Francisco, or the proper officer provided by law, hanged by the neck until you be deal, and may tool have mercy on your soul. While pronouncing the sentence first donor was greatly affected, and before he had made the last remark gave vent to tears. Many others in the court room were moved to tears, while the prisoner looked pare and unmoved, and, when the last word of the judgment had been pronounced, he said, "Thank you," and resumed his seat.
